(c) and (d) Under the United Nations (UN) principles relating to remote sensing of the Earth from Outer Space, there is no restriction on any satellite imaging over any country and therefore, the question of permission for any satellite to take pictures from Outer Space does not arise. However, there is a need for regulating the distribution of the High-resolution data to the users in the country in order to take care of the national security. Hence, Government of India have examined the matter and decided on the Policy for acquisition and dissemination of satellite remote sensing images, including high-resolution images to support developmental activities. The Policy was formulated after detailed discussions with all the concerned Ministries/Departments. As per the Policy the high-resolution data (including the data from IKONOS of Space Imaging) will be distributed through Antrix Corporation/National Remote Sensing Agency, Department of Space, after taking into account national security considerations.
